

Fintel students are share trading winners.

Website and community – your online resource!!!!

Join a group – share an opinion, let us know about great trades, or even not so great trades. Most of all – be involved in what the online community has to offer.

The online forums and discussions are gaining momentum. This is a place where we communicate, share, learn, read, gain knowledge and involve ourselves as traders!!!

This is the place to be.
What can you do online?

- Start a group that interests you in relation to trading?
- Comment on other peoples posts, charts, etc.
- Post a chart to get feedback or to offer your point of view.
- Read all the past and present newsletters like this one.

The online community is an online discussion group specifically for Fintel clients.

You are in control of all aspects of your account. Choose to receive email notifications (or not) about the groups you have joined. Log on and see the discussions at your own leisure.

But most of all, I encourage you all to be involved. If you have a partner or group that you are emailing, bring I online in a group. Its easier to communicate and share. If you want this to remain private, this can also be organised.

Not sure how to use the forum? There is a group that tells you how use and up load charts.

thinking

Thinking outside the box!

Thinking like a trader.

We use market analysis to identify the patterns that define risk, and determine when to take profits. The trade either works or it doesn't. In any case we go onto the next trade. Its that simple, but certainly not easy.

In fact, trading is probably the hardest thing you will ever attempt to be successful at.

Why? Because the more you think you know, the less successful you will be. Trading is hard because you have to operate in a state of not having to know, even though your analysis may at times turn out perfect.

To operate in a state of not knowing you have to manage your expectations about the trade. To properly manage your expectations you must realign your mental environment so that you believe without a doubt in the five fundamental truths.....

- Anything can happen!
- You don't need to know what is going to happen next in order to make money
- There is a random distribution between wins and losses for any given set of variables that define an edge.
- An edge is nothing more than an indication of a higher probability of one thing happening over another
- Every moment in the market is unique

Consider these points and what they mean to you. The truth is blindingly obvious once you understand these 5 things (Taken from Trading in the Zone by Mark Douglas.– Chapter 11) More next newsletter

Chart of the week

COH

COH Weekly Chart – share trading and CFD shorting strategies apply to this example

- The power of lines – correctly drawn lines will provide the correct analysis of a trend that you are looking for
- Technical stops – have a closer look at this and decide for yourself. Would the stop in your trading plan have caused early exit and then no profit from these trades?
- Trading plan - does your trading plan rules allow you to take advantage of these types of trades?
- Confirming factor – what type of confirming factor do you use (if any) In this example a form of the MACD is chosen.

Patience is a virtue – being able to draw the lines and wait for the chart to talk to you and provide the opportunity is the best approach. With closer investigation there are many points that could be chosen for an entry. Waiting for penetration of the trend line has obviously (in this example) been the best option for valid entry andmore on the forum
